Stability for different batch proportions